Origin of IEEE Computer Society

The IEEE Computer Society traces its origins to the 1946 formation of the Subcommittee on Large-Scale Computing Devices (LCD) of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers (AIEE). Five years later, the Institute of Radio Engineers (IRE) formed its Professional Group on Electronic Computers (PGEC). The principal volunteer officers of both these groups were designated chairs. The AIEE and the IRE merged in 1963 to become the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers (IEEE). The respective committee and group of the predecessor organizations combined to form the modern IEEE Computer Society. The society's principal volunteer officer has been designated as president since 1971.

Secretary's Report 2020

CH10446 IEEE Computer Society Bangalore Chapter

IEEE Computer Society Bangalore Chapter, recipient of the 2019 Outstanding Chapter Award from IEEE Computer Society and the 2018 Outstanding Large Chapter Award from IEEE Bangalore Section is one of the most vibrant chapters within Bangalore Section and across India. The chapter has been actively conducting events for its member base over the past few years and have always been very innovative in the events conducted with a focus on both the deep technical aspects by concentrating on niche areas of computing, and in membership development through various volunteering opportunities for its members.

Despite a tough Y2020 due to the pandemic situation, the chapter has performed well by quickly switching to virtual online meetings and event platforms since March and conducting several high-impact events (70+) for the members throughout the year. The first quarter was marked with events including invited talks and panel discussions with a lot of premier institutions as our co-hosts. The chapter was able to co-host “Ideathon” at NMIT Bangalore, a workshop to mark the International Women’s Day at UVCE Bangalore and also host the “IEEE GirlGeeksHack”, a hackathon focused on empowering women engineering students. This helped gain a good momentum and get the events going which fueled the chapter’s motivation to excel through the rest of the year.

Despite the pandemic that started to kick in during Q2, the chapter quickly adapted by starting the “Celebrating Computing Webinar Series 2020” which enabled the experience of invited lectures over the virtual meetup platforms. The webinar series featured expert technologists sharing their experiences on niche areas of computer science and information technology. The speakers were carefully chosen from both academia and industry and the webinar series garnered good response from ~~all the~~ major corporate players and academic institutions. Along with the webinar series, the chapter also partnered with different organizational units across India to organize online workshops and technical sessions as well. On the membership development front, the chapter conducted multiple events for the student chapters and provided the student community with insights into the benefits of IEEE Computer Society. This included events promoting IEEE Xtreme 14.0 and membership drives conducted in partnership with student chapters in other sections as well. Additionally, the chapter was able to initiate two new IEEE CS Student Chapters at GSSSIETW Mysore and Christ University Bangalore, bringing the total count of active CS student chapters to 10.

The most awaited event of the year for the chapter was “IEEE DeepTech.AI 2020”, the third event in the series of annual events and the celebration of AI, themed on “AI Life Cycle: Industry Challenges and Research Frontiers”. The two-day flagship symposium featured eminent speakers from both industry and academia across the world and had over 157 registrations and participation. The event received great feedback from all who attended, and the speakers were impressed by the chapter’s coordination of the event. The event was supported by Intel, Honeywell and IEEE Bangalore Section and membership drives were an integral part of the event.

The current membership count of the chapter is 786 which is ~24% increase over last year (631) and is a direct result of the consistent efforts by the chapter in bringing noteworthy events and programmes for the benefit of its members and depicts how the efforts from the chapter have directly impacted its members and has motivated many to continue and retain their CS membership. Of this number, 434 are student members and 352 are professional members.
